

A LEGLESS COXSWAIN, Martin by name, being carried from the shell by a husky member of his crew after one of the races in the recent Henley Regatta on the Thames River, England. The plucky helmsman guides the destinies of the crack crew of the Thames Rowing Club.

Levick

Right—JOHN W. WEEKS, from his latest studio camera portrait taken after our Secretary of War had been in office for four months.

Underwood

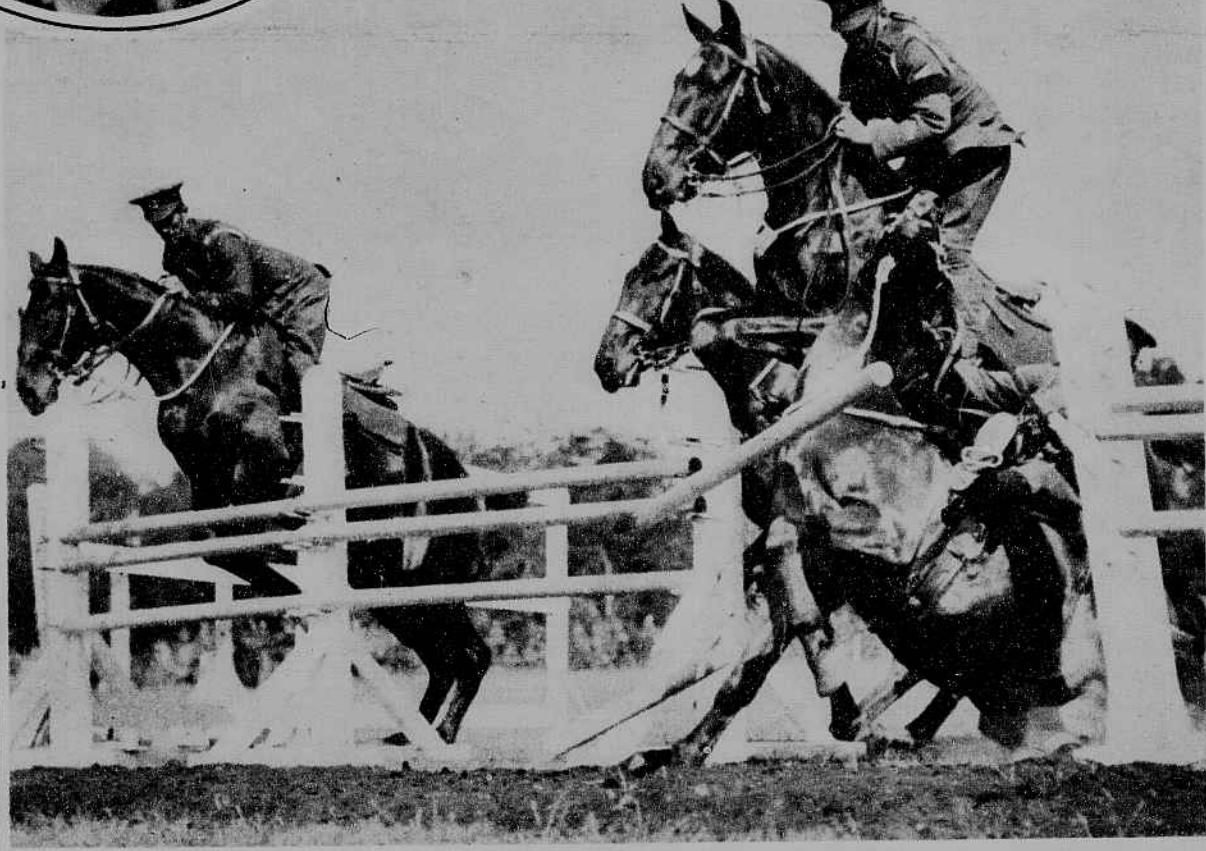

Left—BRIGADIER GENERAL SAWYER, the President's physician, wearing one of the new regulation white summer uniforms for army officers, from a picture taken aboard the Presidential yacht, Mayflower, recently during a party given by Mrs. Harding for newspaper women.

H. & E. from Paul Thompson

LIKE A FLOCK OF GIANT GEESE are these thirteen S.E. 5s, arrayed in pursuit, carrying twenty-five pound bombs, and on their way to finish off the old German destroyer G-102, at a point some 75 miles off the Virginia Capes, selected as the graveyard for the once enemy vessels turned over to this country after the war. The army planes under the proud eyes of General Mitchell, who swooped above the doomed vessel in a De Havilland 4, made twenty hits with forty-four bombs.

Edwin Levick

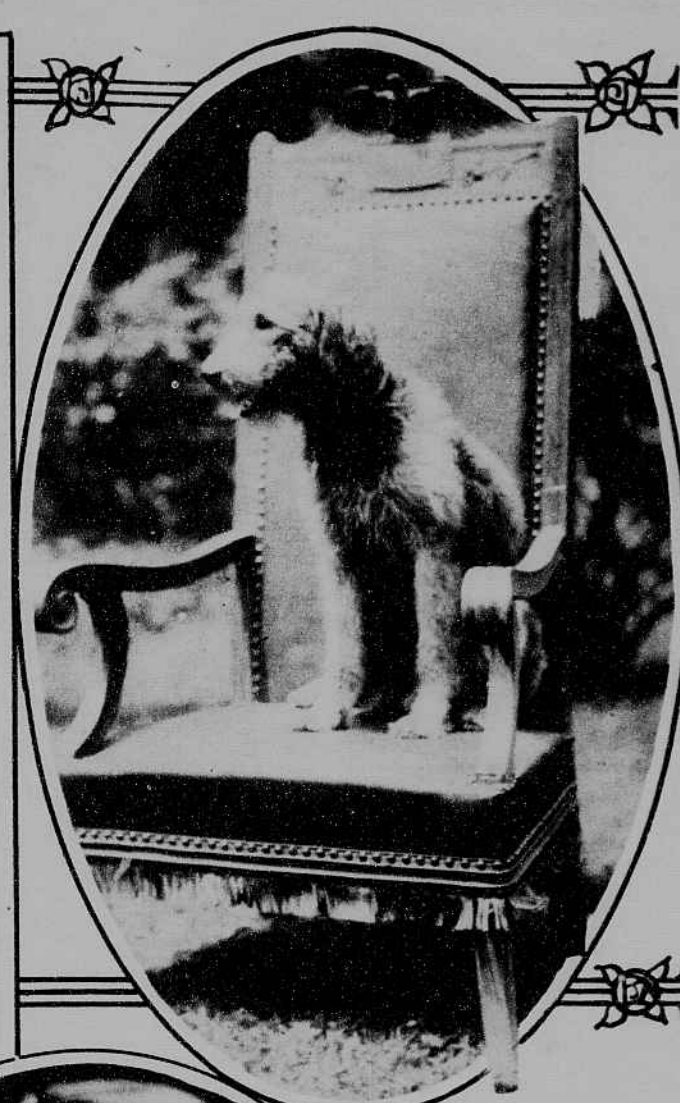

A DISASTROUS SPILL. Four riders from the Royal Military College attempt to take a steeplechase obstacle at the recent Aldershot Command Horse Show in England, and three fall, piling up in the bad jam shown at the right of our picture. Note that two horses are down, while the third is vainly trying to clear the pile.

Keystone

Right—"A ONE-MAN PARADE." Dr. J. W. VanKirk of Youngstown, Ohio, holds a parade all by himself on historic Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, carrying the "world flag" which he designed. The "Doc" intends to offer it to the nations of the world as a world standard at the forthcoming conference in the Capital.

International

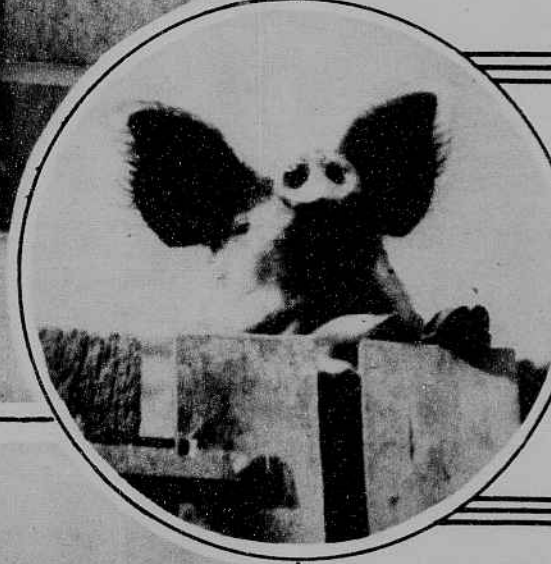

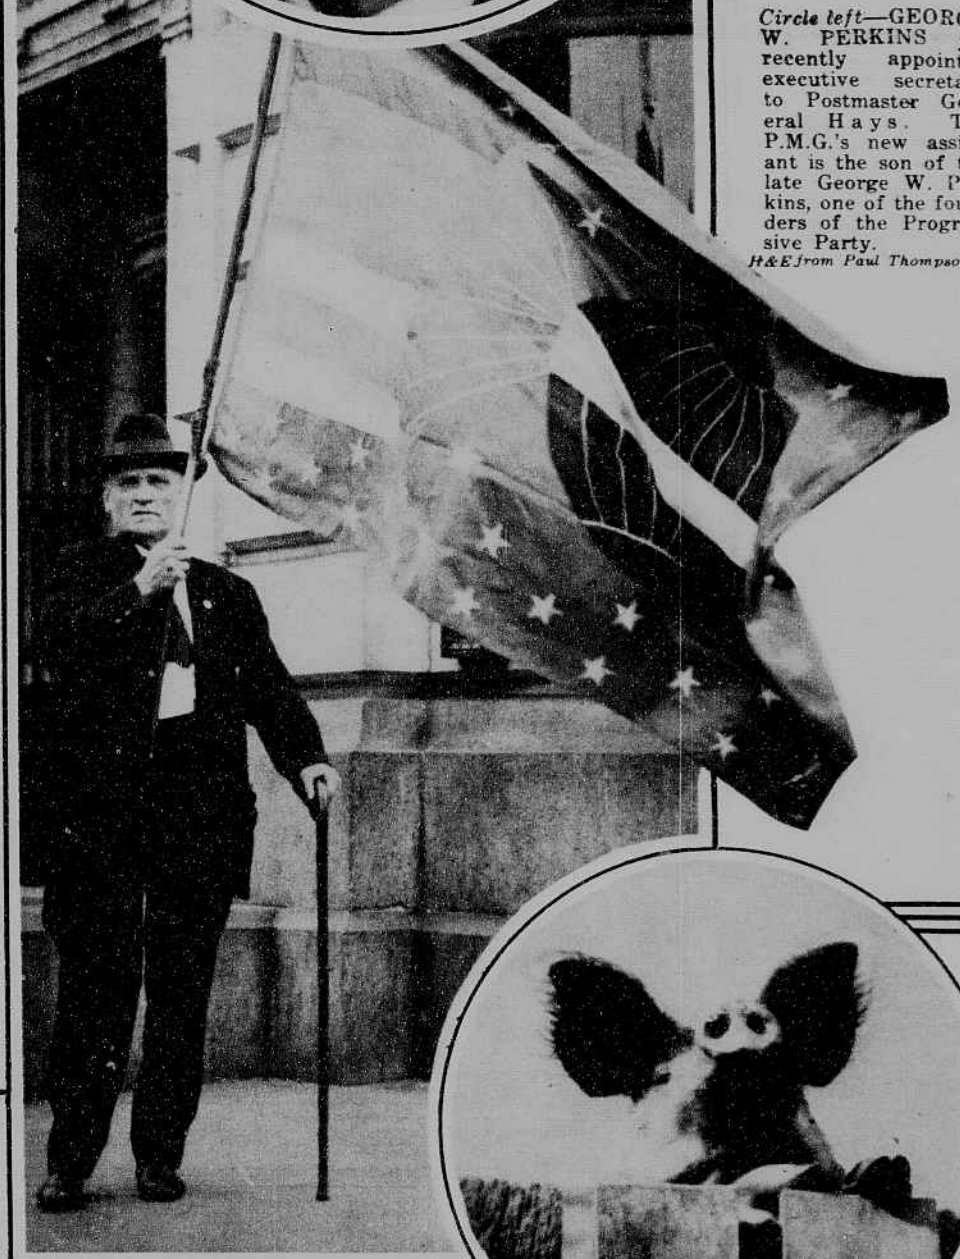

LADDIE BOY, the White House Airedale, makes himself perfectly at home in President Harding's new "editorial" chair, the gift of newspaper editors the country over, as a token of the esteem in which they hold their fellow member of the "Fourth Estate." The chair, of dark oak, was made from the rib of the old Revolutionary frigate, Revenge. The only ornamentation is an American eagle at the top beneath which is the inscription plate and two symbolic carvings.

Keystone

Circle left—GEORGE W. PERKINS jr., recently appointed executive secretary to Postmaster General Hays. The P.M.G.'s new assistant is the son of the late George W. Perkins, one of the founders of the Progressive Party.

H&E from Paul Thompson

Above—SPEAKING OF SOWS' EARS— you remember the purse that was made from one—well, here's a Hampshire Farm, England, member of the same family whose ears form, to all appearances, an interesting entomological study, its auditory appendages looking for all the world like a pair of rare butterflies.

Levick

Right—VINCENT ASTOR'S NEW YACHT. A broadside of the palatial Nourmahal, Vincent Astor's new 166-foot yacht, taken last week off Newport, when she averaged 13 knots an hour. The new craft has as much passenger accommodation (seven state-rooms, each with bath) as Mr. Astor's old and smaller yacht, due to the compactness of her two Winton-Diesel engines.

Edwin Levick

